Interrogative Sentences

Changing Assertive and Interrogative

- Assertive Sentence (Affirmative):
  We will visit the old lady tomorrow.

- Interrogative Sentence (Negative):
  Will we not visit the old lady tomorrow?

- Assertive Sentence (Negative):
  We will not visit the old lady tomorrow.

- Interrogative Sentence (Affirmative):
  Will we visit the old lady tomorrow?

- Rhetorical Question:
  Isn't it a wonderful day?

NOTE: The rhetorical question implies the affirmative answer: It is a wonderful day.

REMEMBER

- To change assertive sentences to interrogative sentences, a question is put.
- The question is put to either get information or the answer suggested by the statement.
- Questions which imply the corresponding answer are called rhetorical questions.
- When the question is negative, the assertive sentence is affirmative.
- When the question is affirmative, the assertive sentence is negative.

Your Turn to Try

Change the following into interrogative sentences.

1. This patient is recovering fast.
2. Studying for the English exam is more important than studying for the Math exam.
3. He does not have many friends.
4. My father did not like the movie.
5. We did not take the right decision.

