

Nouns: gender

Rewrite the sentences by changing the gender of the underlined words, if possible. You may make other necessary changes.

1. It has been 3 years since I met my brother.
2. The lion watched his prey for a long time, before pouncing on it suddenly.
3. Ma'am, my aunt and nephew wish to see you.
4. His son-in-law is a writer.
5. Her husband is a doctor.
6. The king asked all the doctors in his kingdom to attend the meeting.
7. The principal declared that the boys must wear clean shoes to school.
8. That man is asking for some sugar. Please pass him the bottle.
9. The police took over an hour to reach the crime scene. By then, the local men had already caught the thief.
10. The dancer is waiting to perform. Should we call him on stage?

Answers

1. It has been 3 years since I met my sister.
2. The lioness watched her prey for a long time, before pouncing on it suddenly.
3. Sir, my uncle and niece wish to see you.
4. Her daughter-in-law is a writer.
5. His wife is a doctor.
6. The queen asked all the doctors in her kingdom to attend the meeting.
7. The principal declared that the girls must wear clean shoes to school.
8. That woman is asking for some sugar. Please pass her the bottle.
9. The police took over an hour to reach the crime scene. By then, the local women had already caught the thief.
10. The dancer is waiting to perform. Should we call her on stage?